What is chorion villus sampling? Chorion villus sampling (CVS) involves the examination of chorionic villi (placental tissue). Both the baby and placenta (afterbirth) originate from the same cell and so the chromosomes present in the cells of the placenta are the same as those of the baby. How is CVS done? Local anaesthetic is given. A fine needle is then passed through the mother's abdomen and a sample of villi is taken. The needle is carefully observed using ultrasound scan.
