While the most common cause of male factor infertility is low sperm count, some men are infertile because of poor sperm motility. Normally, at least 50% of a man's sperm should have good quality progressive motility. When levels are below this percentage, the condition is called asthenospermia or asthenozoospermia. Many men with

Male infertility - Wikipedia

Male infertility refers to a male's inability to cause pregnancy in a fertile female. In humans it accounts for 40-50% of infertility. It affects approximately 7% of all men. Male infertility is commonly due to deficiencies in the semen, and semen quality is used as a surrogate measure of male fecundity.
